Goodna Bypass: Daniels slams Liberals

Federal Labor Candidate for Ryan, Ross Daniels has warned residents in the electorate to be careful of misinformation being spread about the Goodna Bypass.

“At recent information sessions about the Goodna Bypass, participants were being told that the Goodna Bypass will be built regardless of who is in power, and that is just not true,” he said.

“The information that is being spread is a deliberate attempt to mislead voters.

“Labor Leader Kevin Rudd has unequivocally committed that Labor will not build the Goodna Bypass if elected at the next Federal Election, and I whole-heartedly support that. We have repeated our commitment many times.”

Mr Daniels said that voters deserved the truth from their political representatives at all times, and residents could absolutely be confident that if Labor is elected, there would be no Goodna Bypass.

“Other political candidates are clutching at straws to keep the support of voters, who do not want this bypass. I am sick of the lies and misinformation that are being spread,” he said.

“Rejection of the Goodna Bypass is one of the key distinctions between Federal Labor and Liberal candidates in this area, and it is vital that everyone understands that the Goodna Bypass will not be built if Labor is elected this year.”

Mr Daniels said that the Goodna Bypass was a bad planning decision, made in bad faith, and made for no good reason anyone can explain.

“The way to stop the Goodna Bypass, and the only way to stop it, is to elect a Labor Government at the next Federal Election,” he said.
